CNA International expands into Russia

CNA International is pleased to announce the completion of a full integration process of “Talented People” a St. Petersburg, Russia based, boutique recruitment firm into the CNA International - CEE & CIS regional network.

St. Petersburg - Russia's second largest city, one of 15 cities with population of more than one million people. The local region is a cradle of industrial, IT and engineering human resources in Russia and the country is likely to emerge from raw materials economy to potential industrial leader.

Anna Potapova, Director of Talented People and her team of 5 consultants will be bringing to CNA their extensive knowledge of the Russian market. The CNA network will be well positioned to offer global, cross border and local solutions to clients and candidates from the Russian Federation or those who are entering into this important and emerging market.

Managing Director, Nick Sprang, said: “Russia’s recruitment industry continues to evolve and remains a unique marketplace. Like in many emerging markets, the search for talent is on the rise as more Russian companies compete for skilled workers. With the complete integration of Talented People, we are now in a well-placed position to combine our executive search skills with an organisation that truly understands the Russian market. This is an exciting time for our business as we expand into a country that has potential to become an industrial leader.”

CNA International was founded in 1993 and is the executive search arm of Pertemps Network Group, one of the UK’s largest independently owned recruitment agencies. CNA International now has well over 30 offices inside and outside of the UK and in recent years has expanded into the likes of Asia.
